ACTRESS IN BATTLE ON STREET

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25.—(U.P.)—Alma Rubens, screen actress, was held in an Alhambra sanitarium tonight after she had attempted to knife one of two physicians removing her to the institution, police reported.

The doctors said that Miss Rubens was suffering from a nervous breakdown.

Captain Jerry Wallis in charge of Hollywood police station assigned detectives to make an investigation of the two wild scenes created by the actress on Hollywood boulevard, the heart of the film capital's streets.

Attacks Doctor

Miss Rubens made two attempts to escape from the doctors' automobile. On the first occasion she tried to slash one of the physicians when he pursued her. Her name was not learned by police.

Patrolman Elmer Miller halted the actress and arrested the knife from her. When told by Dr. E. W. Meyer and the other physician of the actress' condition he did not retain them. Detectives summoned by persons in the vicinity arrived just as the automobile started away.

Tries Escape

HEROES FACE STORM OF WELCOME

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(U.P.)—Captain George Frier and his crew of the liner America, who rescued 22 men from the sinking Italian freighter, Florida, at the height of a hurricane Wednesday, were sailing straight into another great storm tonight—the storm of welcome which only New York can give its heroes.

Thrilled from Harlem to the battery official and unofficial New York prepared a welcome at Pier 54 Saturday in the best rickety tape and brass band style the handful of men who made the rescue.

The America's heroes have asked repeatedly to be permitted to land quietly. But New York wants to see and hail the master of the America and Chief Officer Harry Manning, who led eight men out to rescue the crew of the Florida in a tiny lifeboat. Then there is Chief Radio Operator Nelson Smith, who worked for 40 hours to locate the sinking Florida by radio beaming, and did it.

And the city wants to see Salvatore Bracco, a seafarer on the America, who went out in the lifeboat because he could speak Italian. He shouted instructions to the Florida's crew. In 1925 he won hero medals when the President Roosevelt rescued the crew of the Lanzetta Florida.

The others to be honored are: W. J. Clark of Baltimore, Mont. A. Wilson, New York; J. Tallio, New York; W. Valdek, San Francisco; W. Trotter, Camden, N. J.; F. Kellum, Bradbrook, Pa.; and J. Harbison, Jessup, Pa., all members of the lifeboat crew.

Dark Secret Revealed As Light Affair

The dark secret is out. It is a light affair.

City officials have no intention of making a great white way of the parking space in rear of the city hall.

The elegant electroliers, that have made their appearance near the back steps of the city hall during the last few days, are only temporary and for demonstration purposes.

Five companies have installed their wares. One of them installed both a single and a double standard as samples for the contemplated business district lighting system. The sample lights have been so placed that all the councilmen will have to do when the bids come before them is to lean out of the council chamber windows and look them over.

All the lights have been connected up with the power lines so that an actual demonstration can be given.

POINT LODGE K. P. PLANS HALL

According to officers of the Point Lodge, the group has been meeting in a building on Sand and avenue for the last three years. The building was found to be too small for the purposes of the lodge. COPPER CONSUMPTION SHOWS AN INCREASE

Comparison of conditions in the copper situation today with those current 12 months ago yields a most impressive demonstration of fundamental improvement. Developments in 1928 have been exceedingly conducive to genuine prosperity in every branch of the industry.

The industry as a whole is now on a solid basis which promises progress and possibilities in coming years. Production has been brought under sane direction but there is no shortage of metal for the consuming trade.

The wider use of copper, however, is the major favorable factor in the situation. Consequently there is a particularly sound relation established between supply and demand. Excess stocks are no longer a millstone around the neck of industry. Surplus stocks of refined copper in the country have been reduced 45 percent since Jan. 1 and according to the latest official showing represented less than two weeks needs.

Business in the metal has been moving at a wonderfully healthy pace right through the year. Large outlets have developed. This division of the industry has barred the accumulation of bulky supplies. It is interesting to note that since July, 1927, refined stocks in primary hands have been reduced 100 percent. Eight years ago they were more than six times as large.

Copper is not now produced to become an economic waste and expense as formerly. It is finding its way into channels of consumption almost hot from the refinery. The handling of extensive requirements and the development of new uses call for quick distribution of the raw product. The problem is to keep the supply equal to the new fields that are opening up on every hand.

The phenomenal increase in domestic consumption is another factor of tremendous importance. In fact we see a much bigger demand for consumer's goods and that means a growing home outlet for production.

Deliveries to American consumers during the past 12 months amounted to 1,918,866,000 pounds and compare with deliveries of 1,651,848,000 pounds, the previous 11 months. This is an increase of 267,018,000 pounds, or 16.1 percent. Comparison with the 1923 figures show there was a net increase in domestic shipments of over 30 percent.

Intensive manufacturing activity both here and abroad absorbed more copper in 1928 than in any previous year. Based on movements for the first 11 months, and estimated December shipments, the total quantity of American refined copper going to domestic consumers and for export in 1928 should be approximately 3,323,103,263 pounds, or 389,685,263 pounds more than the total deliveries in 1927.

The high rate of our domestic consumption represents the major influence in the situation. At the end of a year of continuing progress, the per capita consumption of copper in this country is estimated at about 16 pounds. Recently, over a period of three months the per capita rose to a little over 18 pounds. Consumption of new copper in 1927, based on deliveries was estimated at about 13.7 percent per capita.

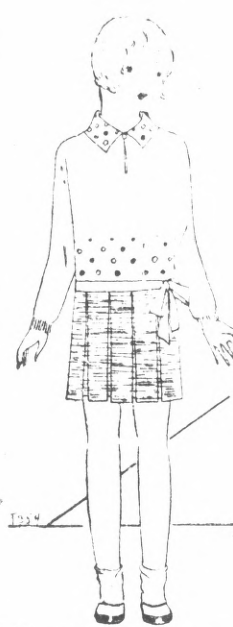

A copper appetite of world wide extent is taxing resources. America is the great source and reservoir of supplies and every market in the world is open to its product. New construction projects have been running ahead of the industry's capacity to supply the product fast enough without drawing upon the limited reserves.

In the past five years the United States has produced 14,356,936,000 pounds of refined copper. Total deliveries during that period amounted to 14,538,604,000 pounds or 226,663,000 pounds in excess of production.

It is claimed that cannibals in the Dutch East Indies eat the tax collectors that are sent about. They must have good teeth.

What Shall I Wear?

By JUDIE

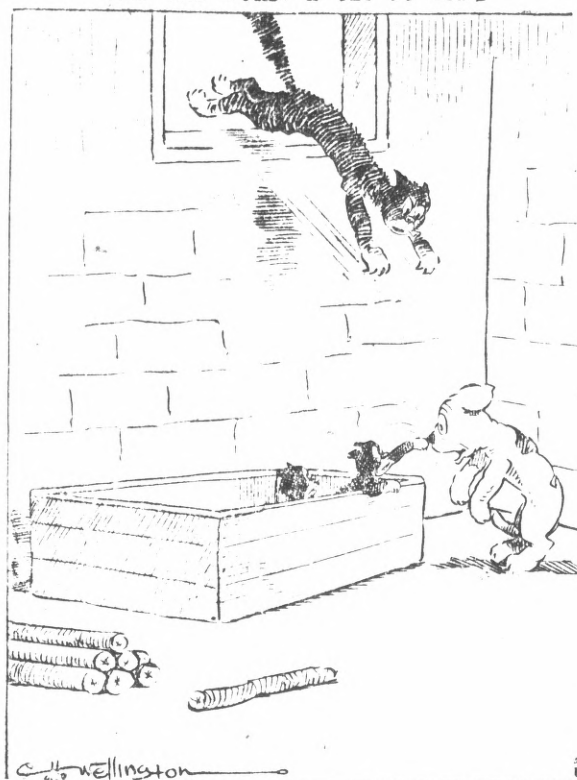

This frock is a compromise model. The bodice blue with white polka dots, the skirt of a plaided jersey.

Dear Judie: Could you help me with any ideas for dressing my little girls one four, the other nearly seven. I should like to dress them alike, but is there too much difference in their ages? It is very odd this dressing two little girls alike where we are now living and I think I always advise it. There is some anxiety to keep them in after all not much difference between them. They both need coats, two or four and seem not enough would you get them ensembles or anyway to count suitably. What have you to suggest? MOTHER. It is such an attractive fashion, be identical or in different colors.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME

BEAUTY

Are you going South for the winter?

If so, don't forget last summer's recollections for sunbath and frock. Perhaps, this time you'll heed my warning not to expose your skin unduly to direct sunlight and to wind and dust. Remember what an awful time you had clearing your skin up this fall to be ready for the winter weather?

When you are to be out in the sun long wear a shade hat or carry a parasol if your skin is dry and sensitive. Otherwise it will shivel and look ten years older by the end of your vacation. Before setting yourself on the beach (hard to think of on a cold day) protect your skin with all or at least make for that purpose. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. You know as well as I do that it's much easier to keep your skin from becoming or becoming marked with freckles than it is to remove such damage.

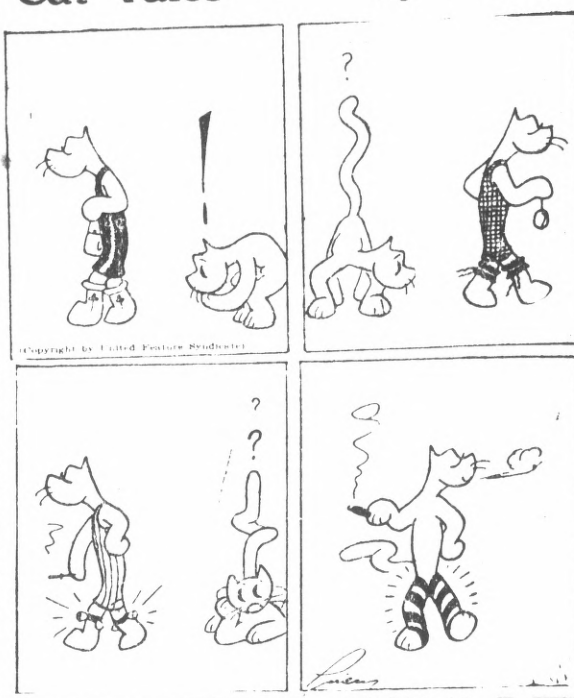

Dear Miss Long,

I have a long, thin face and I would like to know how to make it seem fuller. Isn't there some way of doing my hair or something of the sort which will help? MARY. Wear your hair full at the sides. Use no means pull it back of your ears and lay on the forehead. This will soften somewhat the outline of your face and make it look shorter and fuller.

Yours for Style, JUDIE

Throw Clutch Out When Starting Car

In starting your car, particularly in cold weather, always press the clutch pedal to the floor. This advises the free emergency road service of the California State Automobile association. This saves the battery and starter as they are required to turn the transmission gears in heavy grease, unless the clutch is released.

LEGION MOVES FOR WORLD PEACE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25.—"World War veterans of California through the American Legion as a member of Fidac, an international organization of veterans, numbering nine million is participating in one of the greatest experiments in promotion of world peace," Frank N. Beltramo Jr., commander of the American Legion in this state, declares in an appeal for all veterans that are eligible to join the Legion.

"Fidac is but one of several channels through which the Legion is working to bring about a better understanding between the peoples of this earth. The Legion is made up of men who have experienced war at first hand. They want no more war when peace with honor may be had. Recognizing the position of the United States, as one of the world's foremost nations in population, political influence, wealth and world's for righteousness the Legion believes in adequate national defense."

"Five units make up the working program of Fidac, the abbreviated name for Federation International des Anciens Combattants. It proclaims that all international agreements, among governments affecting the entire people, shall be open and above board with full publicity. It holds that treaties are the laws between nations and they must be executed in good faith. It stands in opposition to all persons and propaganda seeking to overthrow, by force, governments existing by will of people."

"Fidac has an auxiliary, of which Mrs. Adalin W. Macauley, of Menominee, Wis., a past national president of the Legion Auxiliary, is the head. One of its activities last year was to arrange for the exchange of thousands of letters among school children of different nations. E. Arthur Bell of Monice, Ind. is vice president of Fidac for the United States."

"Nations represented in Fidac are: United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Rumania, Portugal, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Serbia. The possibilities for service through Fidac, of which every Legionnaire is a member, are almost boundless."

O. UNDERWOOD SUCCEUMS IN SOUTH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (U.P.)—Oscar Underwood, former democratic senator from Alabama and a noted leader of the democratic party, died today at his country home, "Woodlawn," near Mount Vernon, Va.

Millions of radio fans, who did not know Underwood as a United States senator, learned to know him through the persistence of the Alabama delegation at the 1924 democratic convention, which from start to finish cast "twenty-four votes for Oscar Underwood."

Underwood's death came suddenly at 11:15 a. m. after he was thought well on the road to recovery from a stroke he suffered last month.

Honored by Senate
Within a few minutes after his death, the senate, where he had served for many years, adjourned in respect and in the house, Minority Leader Philip Garrett delivered a brief eulogy.

Underwood was 67 years old. He was born in Louisville, Ky., educated at Rugby school there and later attended the University of Virginia. He was elected a representative in the 54th and each succeeding congress to the 6th. After serving 20 years in the house, he was elected to the senate and took office as a senator in 1915, remaining until 1927, when he refused to be a candidate for reelection.

Tariff Act Author
Underwood gained national prominence at the beginning of the Wilson administration as the author of the Underwood tariff act. For several years he was the minority leader in the senate and in 1924 was a conspicuous contender for the democratic presidential nomination.

He served as a member of the American delegation at the Washington arms conference in 1921 and was an American delegate to the sixth Pan-American conference at Havana last year.

Historic Home
Senator Underwood's health began failing a few years ago. In 1926 he purchased the historic old estate "Woodlawn," built by George Washington for his adopted daughter, Sally Curtis, who married his nephew, Col. Lawrence Lewis. Dr. William Thornton, the architect who designed the capitol, also designed "Woodlawn" in 1805.

Underwood is survived by his widow, Mrs. Bertha Underwood, two sons, Oscar, Jr., and John Louis, and two brothers, Col. Sidney Underwood, of Atlanta, Ga., and Fred B. of Knoxville, Tenn. Funeral arrangements have not been completed but Oscar Underwood, Jr., said the body probably would be taken to Birmingham, Ala., Saturday night.

BRITISH SCORE U. S. GOLF ATTIRE

LONDON, Jan. 25.—UP—While the young men will wear white competing for the most important golf titles in the world is the subject of much discussion on British links, as well as in clubs and exclusive, among established members. The temper which Walter Hagen showed some years ago when he criticized the dress of the British "profs" has become a full-sized storm following the return of the British Walker Cup team.

Hagen and his brother golfers from across the Atlantic are coming in for their share of "panning" from the more conservatively dressed British golfers. The cable dispatches displayed by The Hagen on his visit here last summer is summed up under the heading of "two-fifteen" remarks. "Without exaggerating in the slightest degree, we feel that the shirt-knives, candy golf shoes and shoes worn by the visitor Americans were such as to cause the British golfers to go to the other extreme in order for the purpose of showing the American that it is not necessary to dress like peacocks or musical comets in order to play the game of golf."

House That Jack (Sharkey) Built

STRIBLING IN EAST VICTORY

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 25.—UP—Young Stribling, outstanding challenger for the heavyweight championship crown won by a technical knockout over Ralph Smith, Pacific coast giant in the third round of their scheduled ten round bout tonight when it was stopped by the referee. Smith was out on his feet, having been knocked down five times, three times for the count of nine.

K. O. CHRISTNER WINS FAVOR OF CROWD

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, N. Y., Jan. 25.—UP—Jack Sharkey saved the proposed $500,000 fight at Miami beach tonight by getting the verdict over K. O. Christner, of Akron.

But he did so by a narrow margin which left a record crowd in Madison Square Garden complaining and disgruntled with the decision.

Sharkey now can go on to meet Young Stribling at the Florida resort but there will always be some who figure that the Akron rubber padder is fully as good a man as the Lithuanian.

Christner figured as an awkward newcomer to the ring, carried the fight mainly to his more experienced opponent in the opening rounds, winning the first four. After that, Sharkey's ring knowledge told and he cut up his opponent with savage right uppercuts calculated to drop and stop a less game man than the Oklaian.

The crowd which had eluded its way into the Garden anticipating a very easy victory for the Bostonian were amazed as Christner throwing right hands repeatedly to the defensive. For the first four rounds of the bout, the men who is to meet Stribling in Miami beach next month took quite a severe panning from the persistent Akron heavyweight. Sharkey's coolness and experience enabled him to make points which won the decision. The referee and one judge voted for Sharkey; the other judge called it a draw.

Check Ignition On Your Machine

An occasional check of the ignition on your car by an expert electrician is advised by the fire emergency road service of the California State Automobile association. Have the battery, distributor, coil, generator, and the other parts checked. Most calls for first aid are necessary because these units fail to function.

KEYES FAMILY APPEARS ON STAND

LOS ANGELES—Jan. 25—(U.P.) The family of Asa Keyes testified in his behalf late today as the former district attorney neared the close of his fight against charges that he accepted more than $150,000 in bribes to permit acquittal of Julian Petroleum corporation defendants.

His wife, Mrs. Lillian Keyes, and his daughters, Elizabeth and Annis, took the stand in rapid succession to tell of the purchase of the new Keyes home in exclusive Beverly Hills.

They touched also upon gift Keyes received from Ben Getzoff, whom he testified he knew only as a friend of the family but whom the state says was his "go-between" in the bribery.

Home Involved

Mrs. Keyes, modestly attired in black, spoke calmly from the stand. She testified that she and her daughter had looked at property at various times since 1925, when a new home was first planned.

As she spoke her eyes met those of her husband and he seemed embarrassed by the necessity of his presence on the stand.

Knew Getzoff

Mrs. Keyes declared that she knew Ben Getzoff as a friend of the family since 1925 and said that he had been insistent that they accept as gifts furnishings for the new home.

Elizabeth Keyes, who was employed in the district attorney's office when her father was district attorney, testified that the automobile given her by Ben Getzoff came after a "kidding matter". Getzoff had often told her that she needed a new car and finally had one delivered to her.

On questioning by the defense, she admitted that she did not know for certain who had bought the car.

Annis Keyes, college student, for the most part repeated her mother's testimony that they had been planning the new home for some time.

She told how the Keyes family had wanted to move from the east side neighborhood in which they lived "because people did not understand why people in our position had to remain in such a district."

Testimony Read
After Annis Keyes left the stand the defense began the monotonous reading of the bulky Julian testimony.

The reading was done in an effort to show that Ed Rosenberg really had nothing to do with the Julian collapse and that Keyes was justified in seeking to have him dismissed as a Julian defendant.

It was expected that the reading which had not been completed at adjournment today, would continue until almost noon Saturday.

Getzoff and Rosenberg are the two remaining co-defendants in the present bribery action. Getzoff the asserted "go-between" and Rosenberg for asserted payment of $125,000 to Keyes to conduct Julian cases that he would be freed.

Hearing Held On Drunk Charge
G. L. Fisher, of Sacramento, yesterday morning was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Arthur Alstrom on a charge of driving while drunk. He is free on $500 bail to appear within a short time for preliminary hearing before Judge Alstrom.

Whipping Asked For Bootleggers

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 25 (U.P.) Revival of the public whipping post as an aid to prohibition enforcement was proposed in a bill introduced in the Missouri house today by Representative J. C. Putnam, a farmer serving his first term in the legislature.

The bill provides that a person convicted of a misdemeanor would be punished by not less than seven nor more than 20 lashes on the bare body. Every city, town or village would be authorized to establish a whipping post.

"The bootleggers will stop on seeing if they know the leather is going to be laid to their backs," Putnam said.

CEMENT QUIZ HITS BARRIER

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25 (U.P.) Two alternatives to force officials of cement companies in California to produce business records and statistics before a special committee of the state legislature investigating the so-called cement "trust" will be considered before the hearing is resumed in Los Angeles a week from next Monday.

The five senators may either await an opinion of the state attorney general or resort to the direct power of a legislative committee while the legislature is not in session, the arrest of all who refuse to submit requested records. The latter action was considered improbable.

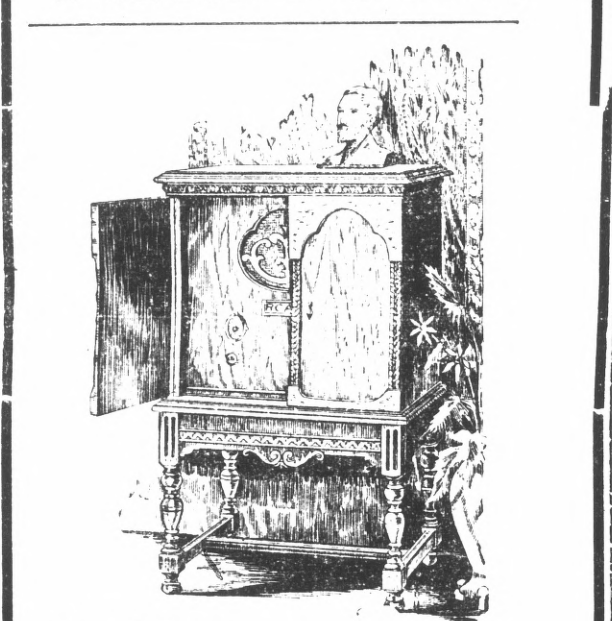

"We won't do anything tonight," Senator H. C. Jones of San Jose, chairman of the committee told the United Press when he was asked regarding the possibility of arrests.

The committee adjourned late today after a two-day session here and agreed to meet in Los Angeles on Feb. 4.
